Monash scholarships and bursaries

Monash offers an extensive package of scholarships and bursaries for students in coursework programs, valued at more than $3 million in 2006, to encourage and reward academic excellence and to ensure equitable access to a world-class Monash education. Scholarships are available for both high-achieving students and students in defined equity groups, or a combination of both.

Monash University coursework scholarships are offered for study in any university award course, or for study in specific faculties or courses. They can be divided into three broad categories based on how applicants are selected – on academic merit, equity grounds, or a combination of both.

1. Merit

Merit scholarships are awarded for academic achievement in previous studies. Scholarships that support high-achieving students include the Monash University Scholarships for Excellence.

2. Equity

Equity refers to fairness and principles of justice aimed to redress inequalities in opportunity experienced by some students. Monash equity-based scholarships recognise that all people have different needs and that some groups experience disadvantage that impedes on their educational progress.

Equity scholarships are awarded to students who come from one or more of the Monash University defined equity groups:

- People of Australian Indigenous descent
- People from rural and isolated areas
- People experiencing low socio-economic circumstances
- People with a disability
- People from a non-English-speaking background

Applicants may also be from one of Monash University defined personal disadvantage groups:

- People experiencing long term family difficulties
- People absent from education for a significant period.

3. Merit and equity

Merit and equity scholarships are awarded to selected groups of students who have excellent academic backgrounds but who have also experienced difficulties during their education. These scholarships include the prestigious Monash University Group of Eight Scholarships for year 12 students to study at one of Australia’s top eight universities.

Commonwealth Learning Scholarships

Monash University also awards Commonwealth Learning Scholarships, funded by the Commonwealth Government. This program was introduced in 2004 to assist socio-economically disadvantaged students with education and accommodation costs. Under this scheme, Monash was allocated 313 scholarships in 2006.

Access Monash

Access Monash is an initiative of Monash University which expands its commitment to fair and equitable access to a world-class education. Access Monash strives to provide fairness and social justice in education, enabling individuals, particularly those from disadvantaged and under-represented groups, to fully access, participate and succeed at Monash.

The Access Monash program consists of four major components:

- Alternative entry pathways
- Scholarships and bursaries
- Schools Access Monash program
- Student loans and grants

Alternative entry pathways

Monash offers a range of alternative entry pathways to help individuals gain entry into their chosen degree. These include Monash College diplomas, the Diploma of Foundation Studies, the Monash University Special Admissions Scheme and the Indigenous Fee Payment Scheme.

Scholarships and bursaries

Through the Access Monash program, Monash University has been able to substantially increase the number of scholarships and bursaries available to students; an additional 184 scholarships and bursaries were available in 2006, valued at approximately $670,000. Also available under this scheme are the new Monash College Access and Equity bursaries.
Schools Access Monash
Monash University will work with schools identified as having low rates of progression to tertiary study. Through Access Monash, the university will provide a continuous program of support over time, involving on and off-campus activities for the selected schools.

Student loans and grants
Under the Access Monash program, the university will seek to broaden the range and scope of financial support programs currently available to students.

Scholarships and bursaries in 2007
Scholarships and bursaries offered by Monash University are listed in this guide under one of the three main categories – merit; equity; and those which combine both merit and equity.

How to use this guide
1. To determine your eligibility for the various coursework scholarships and bursaries on offer, you must first identify if in 2006 you are:
   - a Victorian Year 12, interstate Year 12 equivalent or International Baccalaureate (IB) student, or
   - a non-Year 12 student, or
   - a continuing or commencing undergraduate or postgraduate (coursework) student at Monash, or
   - a higher degree by research student at Monash.
2. You will also need to identify your citizenship status. You will be considered a domestic student for scholarship purposes if you are:
   - an Australian citizen
   - a New Zealand citizen
   - holder of an Australian Permanent resident visa*
   - holder of an Australian Permanent Humanitarian visa*
   *Note not all scholarships are open to these categories
All other citizenship categories (including New Zealand permanent residents) are considered to be international students for the purposes of scholarships.
3. Refer to the Checklist guide to Monash University scholarships table on pages 6 and 7 to find out which scholarship(s) you are eligible to apply for, then turn to the individual scholarship entries listed in the main section of this publication for more detailed information and instructions.
4. Apply for a scholarship as instructed in this guide. Please note:
   - commencing students who are applying for a course through the Victorian Tertiary Admissions Centre (VTAC) may apply for Monash equity scholarships and bursaries either through the VTAC Special Entry Access Schemes (SEAS) application or via the Monash online application.
   - continuing Monash University students do not need to apply for faculty scholarships but will be nominated by their faculties. All other scholarships can be applied for as instructed in the scholarship entry.
5. Apply for a course at Monash University.
   Please note: If you are interested in a scholarship which is targeted at a particular course or faculty, you must also apply for (or in the case of current Monash students, be enrolled in) the relevant course in order to be considered for the scholarship.

For information about application procedures, refer to page 8 of this publication.

A second round of offers may be made after January 2007 if there are still scholarships and bursaries available. Those scholarships with different offer dates have these listed in their individual entries. As part of the program a Monash tutor assisted with his studies and preparation for his Year 12 exams. Daniell chose Monash after attending Open Day and speaking to lecturers, and says he has found everyone to be really friendly.

"I’m doing a Bachelor of Science, specialising in Marine Freshwater Biology and Zoology, and am also undertaking Japanese studies." Daniell also has a strong interest in genetics, and hopes to one day be a geneticist or a diplomat, and would love to travel, especially in Europe.

Zhiyu Xia

Zhiyu Xia, a Bachelor of Engineering student, said he was very happy when he discovered he had received a Monash University International Scholarship for Excellence.

Having arrived in Australia from China in 2003, Zhiyu completed his VCE at The Knox School in Wantirna South. He says that the scholarship formed part of the reason he chose Monash, as well as the reputation of Monash’s Engineering faculty as being one of the best in Australia.

Andrew Radion
Bachelor of Engineering and Bachelor of Arts first year student Andrew Radion said he felt "pretty excited and happy" when he found out he had received a Monash University Scholarship for Excellence. “It means I don’t have to worry about finances.” The McKinnon Secondary College student is hoping to put some of his scholarship towards an overseas trip to Europe to enhance his studies in German and Ukrainian.

The combined degree allows him to pursue his interest in both engineering and languages, and he has aspirations to do research and teaching. “At uni you are self-directed; you are in control and have to decide whether to put the work in.” He says he has always been interested in maths and science, as well as languages, and chose Monash because of its reputation, particularly in engineering, and because his brother and sister previously studied at Monash.

Andrew maintains close ties to McKinnon where he now tutors maths to a group of Year 12 students. He also enjoys playing piano, and is an active member of the Ukrainian Scouting Organisation, where he is in the process of becoming a leader.

Megan Farmer
“I was so anxious about how I was going to afford to go uni, that I cried when I found out I had received a scholarship, it felt like everything fell into place.”
Megan who is a first year Bachelor of Medicine/Bachelor of Surgery student, has been interested in medicine for the past 12 years, since going to Papua New Guinea and seeing the need for doctors in remote areas. Megan hopes to be able to put some of her scholarship towards a mission placement in Papua New Guinea in the future.
Megan completed VCE at St Paul’s Anglican Grammar in Warragul. She says the transition from school to uni was made easier by the residential camp held by the Faculty of Medicine, Nursing and Health Sciences at Phillip Island. “And Open Day provided the opportunity to gain an insight into the course and the philosophy of Monash and helped me to make the choice to come to Monash.”
Megan is a member of the Christian Union, and Wildfire, the Monash University Rural Health Club. She plays hockey and also enjoys drama and dance, and hopes to pursue these interests and maybe perform in a production in the future.

Even so, Vikram has made time early this year to tutor VCE students in maths, science and English.

Vikram says his choice of degree was a last minute decision, but he is enjoying his experience at uni. He finds that having all his classes with the same medicine students really useful.

Vikram’s transition to uni is also helped by joining a number of clubs such as the Monash Association of Debaters and the Tennis Club.

How do I apply for a scholarship or bursary?
You can apply for most Monash university-wide scholarships and bursaries and many faculty scholarships via the online application

VTAC applicants applying for the Special Entry Access Schemes via the SEAS application form, available online at www.vtac.edu.au can use this form to register for Monash scholarships and bursaries.

Some scholarships must be applied for directly to the relevant faculty or other organisation (see individual scholarship entries).

What information do I need to provide with my scholarship application?
If applying for a scholarship or bursary directly to the university, you will receive a list of supporting documentation during the application process that must be forwarded to the Coursework Scholarships Unit.

If applying via SEAS you will need to supply the recommended supporting documentation to VTAC as instructed when you submit the online SEAS application.

How will I know if Monash has received my supporting documentation?
If you have applied directly to the university and would like confirmation that we have received your supporting documentation, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope with your supporting documentation.

Can I hold multiple scholarships or bursaries?
This depends on the scholarships involved. Below are some of the major restrictions:

Monash University Scholarship (or Indigenous Scholarship) for Excellence + Monash University (Faculty) Scholarship = NO

Any of the above + Monash University Scholarship (or Indigenous Scholarship) for Excellence and Equity or Monash University
Support Bursary = YES

Monash University Scholarship (or Indigenous Scholarship) for Excellence and Equity + Monash University Support Bursary = NO

A Commonwealth Accommodation Costs Scholarship can be held concurrently with any combination of one merit and one equity scholarship from the above examples.

Some other faculty scholarships or campus or course-based awards may have restrictions. For more details, see the individual scholarship entries in this guide or visit www.adm.monash.edu.au/scholarships

Will my application be treated confidentially?
All applications will be treated in the strictest confidence. For information about Monash’s Privacy Compliance Policy, visit www.privacy.monash.edu.au.

How are applicants selected for merit-based scholarships?
Applicants for merit-based scholarships are selected on the basis of academic results in most cases. For example, Year 12 applicants are selected on their ENTER or interstate equivalent.
Currently enrolled Monash students are selected on their grade average. International students not studying VCE must usually have achieved in the top 5% of achievable results in their prerequisite studies.

How are applicants selected for equity-based scholarships and bursaries?
All applicants are assessed on consideration of disadvantage, based on the information and/or supporting documentation provided.
Can international students apply for equity-based scholarships?
No – equity scholarships are only open to Australian citizens, and in most cases holders of an Australian permanent resident visa or permanent humanitarian visa.

How will I know if I have a successful scholarship application?
If you are successful, you will be notified by mail. The majority of offers are made in mid December and in January, except where stated in the individual scholarship entries in this guide.

How do I accept my scholarship?
Details will be provided in your offer letter. For some scholarships, an online acceptance form will need to be completed.

When will I receive my scholarship and or bursary payments from the university?
Generally, payments are issued approximately two weeks after the main census dates in each semester. The main census dates are 31 March for first semester and 31 August for second semester. Other scholarships may be paid fortnightly or at other times. See the individual scholarship entries in this guide.

Can my scholarship and/or bursary be paid towards my course fees?
At the time you accept your scholarship you can nominate the bank account you wish to have your scholarship payment made to or indicate that you wish to apply the scholarship towards your course fees.

Will I be able to keep my scholarship if I accept a place at another tertiary provider or transfer to another tertiary provider?
The Group of Eight Merit and Equity Scholarship may be transferable to another Group of Eight university. No other scholarships or bursaries can be transferred outside Monash.

What should I do if I have been awarded a coursework scholarship or bursary but want to defer my course?
In many cases it is possible to defer your scholarship for up to one year. You must, however first seek approval from your faculty to defer your course. If your faculty agrees to defer your course, you will need to formally accept your scholarship so that it can be held for you and advise the Coursework Scholarships Unit by email of your intention to defer. For more detail on which scholarships can be deferred, see the individual scholarship entries in this guide.

How will my scholarship payments affect my Centrelink benefits?
Students should be aware that all scholarship and bursary payments (except for the Commonwealth Learning Scholarships) are considered assessable income by Centrelink and may affect their benefits.

How will my scholarship affect my income tax return?
Students enrolled part-time (i.e. less than 0.375 EFTSL per semester) should declare their scholarship payments on their income tax return. Scholarship payments received by full-time students are tax exempt.
